Tashkent, Yunusabad
I studied Computer Engineering at Tashkent University of Information Technologies, where I gained a strong foundation in programming, algorithms, data structures, and software development concepts.

Profile

I am a Frontend developer with over 1 years of commercial experience in web application development. I specialize in creating adaptive, interactive, and user-friendly interfaces using modern frontend technologies. I approach tasks responsibly, pay close attention to details, and focus on the quality of the result. I constantly improve my professional skills and quickly master new tools and technologies to create effective and visually appealing solutions.
